I am a Gemini Ascendant and I therefore have a strong intellectual curiosity. I tend to be an anxious person and one of my most important challenges in life is trying to be at peace with myself. I am a very emotional even though it may not be evident at first. I majored in Business Administration/Finance at the Universidad Iberoamericana in Mexico City. I started working shortly after finishing college at the most prestigious Mexican brokerage firm in institutional equity sales and then as an equities financial analyst. I worked at 2 different international institutions as an equities financial analyst covering the conglomerates and mining sector in Latin America. I traveled extensively to visit the companies I covered and my clients, large institutional investors in the US and Europe. I changed my career path on 2001 and moved into the Private Banking world, which is what I do now for a living. I feel I have been of great service to my clients by protecting their savings effectively during the past financial crisis. I have great love for my partner and my family. I also have great love for my friends. I was brought up as a Catholic and I was a fervent Catholic especially during my childhood. When I was around 34 years old I started my spiritual quest, I started venturing into other possibilities. I attended integralist seminars. I was marveled by quantum physics. My oldest friend, (from kinder garden) introduced me to shamanistic workshops, energy field healings, to Oneness/Deekshas and I have been studying Buddhism for a little over 4 years at Casa Tibet in Mexico City. I was incredibly blessed to attend a weekend seminar in Mexico City where I got to listen to Guruji's teachings in person. I saw him in action practicing Vedic Astrology with other seminar participants, which was amazing, and I then realized that I wanted to learn from him so that I could know my self better and help others to know themselves better as well from a spiritual perspective. It has been a pleasure to learn about the mood of Isvara at the time of birth and throughout life, about the power of samkalpa and the remedial measures. I made a pause in my Vedic Astrology studies for a year and a half. The on-line course is a self-paced and I am about to finish the last lesson of part one. Guruji has been very understanding and patient with my pace and is always quick to answer any questions and is incredibly enthusiastic with them.
